

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE DISTRICT OF UTAH, CENTRAL DIVISION

---	--

This order GRANTS the United States’ second motion to freeze Defendants’ assets and appoint a receiver, ECF Doc. No. 414, filed June 22, 2018.

On November 23, 2015, the United States filed its complaint against Defendants, seeking to enjoin Defendants from organizing, promoting, and selling the “solar energy scheme” that they have been promoting since on or before 2010.¹ The United States also seeks disgorgement of Defendants’ ill-gotten gains from the promotion of their abusive tax scheme.²

The United States previously moved for an order freezing the assets of Defendants Neldon Johnson, RaPower-3, and IAS’s assets and for an order appointing a receiver on

² ECF Doc. No. 2 and ECF Doc. No. 35 ¶ 1(a).

November 17, 2017.³ On March 2, 2018, the United States’ motion was denied without prejudice in part because the United States relied upon the facts set forth in its motion for partial summary judgment including the “disputed material facts as to Defendants’ knowledge at the time they made certain statements.”⁴ The Motion for Partial Summary Judgement was also denied in that same order.⁵ Trial is now completed. The Court made extensive findings on the record at the end of trial;⁶ intends to enter detailed Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law including a disgorgement order; and has already entered an interim injunction based on summary findings⁷ and a preservation order.⁸ On the basis of the evidence adduced at trial, as laid out below, the United States’ motion is granted.

I.	Statement of Facts	3
II.	The injunctive relief requested by the United States – in the form of an asset freeze and appointment of a receiver – is necessary or appropriate to enforce the Internal Revenue Laws..	13
	A. The United States has succeeded on the merits.	15
	B. The United States will suffer irreparable injury if an order granting the asset freeze and appointing a receiver is not issued.	16
	C. The balance of harm to the United States in not issuing the injunctive relief outweighs the harm to be caused to Defendants by issuing the requested relief.	18
	D. An injunction will benefit, not disserve, the public interest.	19
	E. A receiver is necessary or appropriate to effect the asset freeze.	20
III.	Order	26

³ ECF Doc. No. 252. The United States did not include Shepard in its original motion to freeze defendants’ assets.

⁷ Initial Order and Injunction After Trial, ECF Doc. No. 413, filed June 22, 2018.

⁸ ECF Doc. No. 419, filed June 27, 2018.

I. Statement of Facts

1. Neldon Johnson is and has been the manager, and a direct and indirect owner of, RaPower-3, LLC, International Automated Systems, Inc. and LTB1, LLC (among other entities). He is the sole decision-maker for each entity.⁹

2. Johnson claims to have invented certain solar energy technology that involves solar thermal lenses placed in arrays on towers.¹⁰

3. In or around 2006 through 2008, Johnson directed IAS to erect, at most, 19 towers on “the R&D Site” near Delta, Utah, in Millard County.¹¹

4. Johnson also directed that IAS install solar lenses in those towers.¹²

5. To make money from this purported solar energy technology, Johnson decided to sell a component of the purported technology: the solar lenses.¹³

6. Johnson recognized that his strength was not in sales, so he directed that IAS use independent sales representatives to sell lenses.¹⁴

7. Johnson drafted some promotional materials to describe the arrangement, “IAUS Solar Unit Purchase Overview” and IAS “Solar Equipment Purchase.”¹⁵

8. Johnson showed IAS salespeople these descriptive materials about the structure of the transaction, the purported technology, and the federal tax benefits that Johnson said a customer could lawfully claim when he bought a lens from IAS.¹⁶

9. He told IAS’s initial salespeople what he understood the tax laws to mean.¹⁷

10. R. Gregory Shepard has been an IAS shareholder since the mid-1990s.¹⁸ He became one of IAS’s initial salespeople in or around September 2005, and began selling solar lenses.¹⁹

11. Shepard’s information about Johnson’s purported solar energy technology came from Johnson or members of Johnson’s family, and Shepard’s own observations on his site visits over the years.²⁰

12. Johnson told Shepard that a depreciation deduction and the solar energy tax credit are related to the sale of lenses.²¹

13. Johnson created, owns, and controls at least three entities that sell or have sold solar lenses: SOLCO I,²² XSun Energy,²³ and RaPower-3, LLC.²⁴ SOLCO I and XSun Energy are not defendants in this action.

14. Johnson created RaPower-3 in 2010. He is its manager and the sole decision-maker for the company.²⁵

15. Once formed, RaPower-3, rather than IAS, sold solar lenses to individuals.²⁶

16. RaPower-3's only business activity is selling solar lenses through a multi-level marketing (otherwise known as "network marketing") approach to increase sales.²⁷

17. Selling lenses through RaPower-3 gave Johnson "much needed revenue" to continue his operations.²⁸

18. Johnson directed RaPower-3 to create a site online (<https://rapower3.net>) where a customer can access and sign a contract to buy lenses and sign other transaction documents that Johnson provides (described below).²⁹

19. Among other things, Shepard created the website www.rapower3.com³⁰ and moderates an online discussion board called “IAUS & RaPower[-]3 Forum.”³¹

20. Shepard gets paid for his work with RaPower-3 through his company, Shepard Global.³²

21. On the RaPower-3 website, Shepard describes the solar energy technology (including the solar lenses) and the transactions underpinning the solar energy scheme, promotes sales, and provides links to the website with the transaction documents.³³ Shepard also uses the IAUS and RaPower-3 Forum and emails to communicate with RaPower-3 members and prospective members.³⁴

22. Shepard also organizes groups of people to visit the R&D Site, the site where component parts of the purported solar technology system are manufactured (the “Manufacturing Facility”), and the site on a large field with a few semi-constructed component parts (the “Construction Site”).³⁵

23. Shepard directs customers to use tax return preparers who are part of the solar energy scheme, like John Howell in Wichita Falls, Texas; Kenneth Alexander in Florida; and Richard Jameson in St. George, Utah.³⁶

24. From 2009 through 2016, RaPower-3 had received at least $25,874,066 from its role in the solar energy scheme.³⁷

25. From 2008 through 2016, IAS has received at least $5,438,089 from its role in the solar energy scheme.³⁸

26. From 2011 through 2016, XSun Energy has received at least $1,126,888 from its role in the solar energy scheme.³⁹

27. From 2010 through 2016, SOLCO I has received at least $3,434,992 from its role in the solar energy scheme.⁴⁰

28. From 2005 through February 28, 2018, all lens-selling entities have received at least $32,796,196.

29. Testimony at trial showed that the total sales price of lenses which appears to have been paid is at least $50,025,480.⁴¹

⁴¹ Exhibit 749.

30. From 2008 through 2016, Shepard received $702,001 from his role in the solar energy scheme.⁴²

31. While selling the solar lenses, Defendants told customers they could buy “lenses” and claim tax benefits.⁴³

32. While they sold solar lenses and organized efforts to sell solar lenses, Defendants told their customers that if they bought a solar lens and signed the transaction documents Defendants provide, their customers were in the “trade or business” of “leasing” solar lenses.⁴⁴

33. According to Defendants, because their customers are in the trade or business of leasing solar lenses, their customers are allowed to claim on their federal income tax returns a business tax deduction for depreciation on the solar lenses and a solar energy tax credit.⁴⁵

⁴⁴ E.g., Pl. Ex. 32. Occasionally, Shepard has claimed that customers have been “in the solar energy business.” Shepard Dep. 243:11-244:3; Pl. Ex. 43 at 1 (“AM I REALLY IN THE SOLAR ENERGY BUSINESS? Yes.”). But in recent years, Shepard has made it clear that “We should not consider ourselves in an ‘energy’ business. We are buying lenses and leasing them – THAT is our business – LEASING – NOT producing energy ...” Pl. Ex. 32.

⁴⁵ Pl. Ex. 1 at 2-3 (“Tax Question” Nos. 45). A collection of Johnson’s statements: IAS Dep. 162:1-165:9, 171:10-173:20; Pl. Ex. 531 at 3; see also Pl. Ex. 532 at 7-10. A collection of Shepard’s statements: Pl. Ex. 93 (as a result of purchasing a lens, “the investor gets his $9,000 back in the form of a Tax Credit, plus the depreciation which adds extensive value over a six year period plus the income from power produced by the Solar Pod.”); Shepard Dep. 148:21-149:25; e.g., Pl. Ex. 125 (letter from Shepard telling a customer that he is “qualif[ied] ... for the Internal Revenue Service solar energy tax credit” because RaPower-3 “put [their lenses] into service”).

34. Defendants told customers that IAS, RaPower-3, or LTB “placed in service” or “put into service” their solar lenses in the year that the customers purchased the lenses.⁴⁶

35. Starting in 2010, RaPower-3 sold lenses for a price of $3,500 per lens.⁴⁷ Johnson determined the price that RaPower-3 would charge for the lenses.

36. Customers started purchasing lenses via the internet at rapower.net. On that site, a potential customer enters the number of lenses he wishes to purchase, and the website “figures” the amount the customer owes and the amount of the customer’s down payment.⁴⁸

37. The site also provides all transaction documents for customers to sign electronically: an Equipment Purchase Agreement, an Operations & Maintenance Agreement (“O&M”), and, at times in the past, a bonus contract.⁴⁹

38. Customers do not negotiate the price of a lens, or other terms of the transactions Defendants promote.⁵⁰

⁴⁶ Pl. Ex. 1 at 3 (“Tax Question” No. 7); Pl. Exs. 44, 57, 104-105, 123-125, 176, 185, 313, 588; see also, Pl. Ex. 472.

39. Over the years, Defendants told customers about Johnson's purported solar energy technology and the progress being made by Defendants.⁵¹ Defendants emphasized progress being made despite their knowledge that the system was not up and running.⁵²

40. From the start, Defendants have told their customers that they can "zero out" their federal income tax liability by buying enough solar lenses and claiming both a depreciation deduction and solar energy tax credit for the lenses.⁵³

41. Defendants knew that when they made statements to customers and prospective customers about the tax benefits and their purported solar lens leasing "trade or business," that the only way a customer has ever "made money" from buying a lens is from the tax benefits; no customer has earned money from rental income or income from a bonus contract.⁵⁴

A distributor need not buy a lens in order to sell lenses for RaPower-3. Id.; Johnson Testimony, Trial Tr. 2242:8-2251:18.

42. LTB, which by contract was to operate and maintain the solar energy project and specifically the lenses, has never done anything; it has never had a bank account, any employees, or any revenue.⁵⁵

43. Defendants told customers to expect income from the “lease” of their lenses, but Defendants know that no customer has been paid for the use of his or her lenses.⁵⁶

44. Defendants’ customers have been audited by the IRS for claiming the tax benefits Defendants promote.⁵⁷

45. Based on the advice and information provided by attorneys or accountants they spoke with about the solar energy scheme, Defendants knew or had reason to know that the purported tax benefits were not permissible under the Internal Revenue Code.⁵⁸

46. Defendants also knew or had reason to know that the purported tax benefits from their solar energy scheme were not permissible under the Internal Revenue Code because others also disagreed with their assertions about tax benefits available from the solar lenses, including:

The remedies hereby provided are in addition to and not exclusive of any and all other remedies of the United States in such courts or otherwise to enforce such laws."

compliance with the tax laws.⁷⁰ Courts have exercised this broad authority under § 7402(a) in a variety of contexts, including ordering disgorgement of ill-gotten gains against a tax return preparer engaged in fraudulent return preparation,⁷¹ appointing receivers to assist in collection of federal tax liabilities or otherwise ensure compliance with the internal revenue laws,⁷² and freezing a defendant's assets.⁷³ The statute alone provides sufficient authority to issue an injunctive order freezing Defendants' assets.

Examination of the typical factors in imposing equitable relief before final adjudication is not necessary but demonstrates the propriety – and necessity – of this action. In the Tenth Circuit, a party seeking a preliminary injunction must show 1) that there exists a substantial likelihood that the movant will prevail on the merits; 2) that the movant will suffer irreparable injury unless the injunction issues; 3) that the threatened injury to the movant outweighs whatever damage the proposed injunction may cause the opposing party; and 4) that the injunction would not be adverse to the public interest.⁷⁴ The Court finds that while 26 U.S.C. § 7402(a) provides explicit authority for the relief requested, the United States, as the moving party, also meets its burden under the preliminary injunction standard for the relief requested.⁷⁵

A. The United States has succeeded on the merits.

For injunctive relief to be warranted under § 7408, the United States must prove by a preponderance of the evidence that (1) Defendants organized an entity, plan, or arrangement; (2) Defendants made false or fraudulent statements concerning the tax benefits to be derived from the entity, plan or arrangement; (3) Defendants knew or had reason to know those statements were false or fraudulent; (4) the false or fraudulent statements pertained to a material matter; and (5) an injunction is necessary to prevent recurrence of this conduct. Alternatively, for injunctive relief to be warranted under § 7402, the United States must prove that an injunction is necessary or appropriate to enforce the internal revenue laws.⁷⁶ As the Court has found, the United States has proven that it is entitled to an injunction under 26 U.S.C. §§ 7402 and/or 7408. The evidence adduced at trial shows that Defendants organized the solar energy scheme;⁷⁷ that Defendants made false or fraudulent statements about the tax benefits to be obtained from purchasing a solar lens;⁷⁸ and that Defendants knew or had reason to know that their statements were false or fraudulent pertaining to a material matter,⁷⁹ namely the tax benefits of depreciation and solar energy tax credits. Further, Defendants have testified that they have no intention of ceasing their activity related to and sales of solar lenses. An injunction is necessary to prevent recurrence of Defendants' conduct.

Disgorgement is also necessary or appropriate to enforce the internal revenue laws. Defendants profited from their scheme in the millions of dollars through money from the United States Treasury that was funneled through their customers. Defendants should not be permitted to retain their ill-gotten gains. The United States has shown that a reasonable approximation of their proceeds is at least $50,025,480. This Court has found that an injunction will issue and that disgorgement will be ordered. Thus, the United States has already succeeded on the merits.

B. The United States will suffer irreparable injury if an order granting the asset freeze and appointing a receiver is not issued.

The United States Treasury has already been greatly harmed by Defendants' scheme. Defendants continue to sell lenses to this day, and Defendants' customers continue to claim the tax benefits related to those lenses. If the injunctive relief requested is not granted, Defendants will have full unfettered access to the funds illicitly obtained to the detriment of the United States.⁸⁰ Defendants' entire scheme was geared to "zero-out" a customer's tax liability. Defendants requested customers make a down payment for their solar lenses of $1,050 per lens. The customers paid this with a $105 "upfront fee" and were asked to pay the remaining amount after they received their tax refunds.⁸¹ Defendants funded their entire scheme through funds that were "redirected" or diverted from the United States Treasury to their pockets though the money first went through the hands of their customers. The United States will not be able to recover all of the improper refunds paid to Defendants' customers. Defendants have been dissipating assets since they learned of the criminal investigation by the Internal Revenue Service no later than June of 2012⁸² and throughout the course of this litigation.⁸³ Defendants have moved assets into foreign jurisdictions⁸⁴ and both Johnson⁸⁵ and Shepard⁸⁶ have taken steps to frustrate the collection of a potential disgorgement award. Without the relief requested, Defendants will continue in their attempt to frustrate the collection of any disgorgement this Court may award and thus irreparably injure the United States.

C. The balance of harm to the United States in not issuing the injunctive relief outweighs the harm to be caused to Defendants by issuing the requested relief.

In evaluating this factor, courts look to whether the freeze itself will cause such disruption of defendants' legitimate business affairs that the assets would be destroyed.⁸⁷ Here, Defendants have no legitimate business. Defendants' solar energy scheme is an abusive tax scheme and not a legitimate business. Defendants do not operate the solar energy scheme – or

⁸⁴ Johnson Dep., vol. 2, 37:22 – 38:5; Neldon Johnson assigned the rights to six patents to Black Night Enterprises, Inc., #6 Solomon's Arcade, Main Street, Charleston, Saint Kitts and Nevis (see USPTO Patent Assignment Search, search by assignee name: "Black Night"). Further, Neldon Johnson testified that if a "government agency caus[ed] problems," then certain assets would revert back to the foreign company. Trial Tr. 2175:4-16. any of the entities involved in the solar energy scheme – in a businesslike manner. Defendants do not have any revenue or income aside from the sale of solar lenses. There is no harm to Defendants in prohibiting them from using ill-gotten gains to fund their technology experimentation and their personal expenses, including offshore arrangements that will be difficult to collect against. The United States however, and the taxpaying public, will continue to be harmed by the probable dissipation of Defendants’ assets. The United States has a compelling interest in enforcing the tax laws and ensuring that persons promoting abusive tax schemes do not profit from their unlawful behavior.⁸⁸ As such, the balance of harms weighs in favor of the United States and for relief to be granted.⁸⁹

D. An injunction will benefit, not disserve, the public interest.

The public interest is served by issuing the injunctive relief requested by the United States. The public has an interest in enforcement of the tax laws.⁹⁰ Taxpayers have an interest in being protected from suffering the results of other taxpayers improper tax benefits. Defendants’ activities do a disservice to the taxpaying public, undermining confidence in the fair administration of the internal revenue laws, and have cost the United States’ Treasury over $14 million. Defendants should not be permitted to profit from their illicit activities. The public interest is also served in ensuring that Defendants do not dissipate assets that can be used to satisfy any disgorgement award this Court may order or otherwise compensate those harmed by Defendants' abusive tax scheme.⁹¹

E. A receiver is necessary or appropriate to effect the asset freeze.

This Court has explicit statutory authority to appoint a receiver pursuant to 26 U.S.C. § 7402\(a\) as may be necessary or appropriate for the enforcement of the internal revenue laws.⁹² Second, the appointment of a receiver is authorized by the inherent equitable power of a federal court.⁹³ The Court finds that the appointment of a receiver is necessary and appropriate in this case. Defendants' solar energy tax scheme involves false or fraudulent statements and the possible dissipation of assets.⁹⁴ Given Defendants' reluctance to cooperate in discovery regarding assets and ownership structure⁹⁵, a receiver is necessary to enforce the internal revenue
